monkey wrench, knocking the robber clear out of the cab. Jones was interviewed in the jail to-day. He said: "My home is in Oxford Mills, la. there. I came from St. Louis to Centralia Monday with James Harding, of Danville, Ill., and Charles O'Dwyer, of this place, and ascertained that the Chicago limited would the be most profitable 'hold up' of any of the trains coming into this city. Arrangements were made to meet at the home of O'Dwyer, in this city, after the robbery and divide the spoils." Jones, continuing, said his own portion was intended for his father, who is in distressed circumstances. Jones carries a card from the Order of Railway Trainmen issued by one of the Chicago lodges, and he also has a switchman's card from the Atchison, To-engine, struck Jones on the head with a peka & Santa Fe at Kansas City. The limited always carries a lot of valuable express matter. While the express people will not talk on the subject of the robbery, positively declining to state the amount which was on the train, it is learned from reliable sources that one of the safes contained fully $50,000 in currenov. It is believed that the would-be robbers had received information as to the amount of money in the car, and it was their intention to blow open the safe with dynamite.

ALL IN CUSTODY.

The Three Robbers in Jail-Taken to Salem to Prevent Lynching. CENTRALIA, Ill., Sept. 21 .- The excitement over the "hold-up" at this place last night by three masked men and the shooting of the engineer and fireman has run high all day, and little else was discussed. Squads of railroad men and merchants were to be seen at all hours of the day in all quarters of the business portion of the city and around the railroad shops, and lynching was openly discussed by the more bot-headed. Very little attention was paid to the matter, until about 4 P. M., when Mayor Benson was notified that there was a deliberate move on foot to swing the bandits to a lamp post immediately after sunset. The persons who conveyed the news auxious to evade the issue. The names of the men who were to lead the mob were given and they proved to be men of resolution and determination. In consequence of this information the authorities determined to move the prisoners secretly to Salem, the county seat, fifteen miles away. A reporter held an interview with the prisoners just before they were spirited out of the city. O'Dwyer positively denies any complicity in the matter, but it is now known that he was the man who had the tussle with baggageman Armstrong, when Hardin, one of the robbers, was shot while in the act of holding up conductor Odum and express messenger Boal at the point of two revolvers. When Hardin was stot in the face and neck by Sanders, who came to the rescue with a shotgun, O'Dwyer, in leaping from the train, dropped his mask and was recognized by Ora Clark, a reputable citizen nere who knows O'Dwyer intimately. O'Dwyer made straight for the home of his mother, where he was captured as previously stated. He bears a hard reputation as a "badger worker" and confidence man. Jones made an open confession, and excuses himself for shooting on the plea that he was drunk at the time. He now states, however, that there were but three men engaged in the affair, himself, Charles O'Dwyer and James Hardin, and that the scheme was evolved three months ago in the leafing resort at No. 1313 Chouteau avenue, St. Louis, and that they had been in Centralia since Monday getting pointers and waiting a favorable opportunity.

James Hardin, the last of the three men, was overhauled near Nashville late this afternoon, and was brought through this city at 10 o'clock to-night. Mayor Benson was apprised of the fact that Hardin was to pass through here, and came over to the train with several resolute men at his side to see that the prisoner passed through the city unharmed. The conductor on the train at first denied that the prisoner was aboard, but when the Mayor informed him of the object of his presence he told him that he was, and that the Washington county sheriff was in charge of him. The prisoner was taken to Odin, and from there to Salem over the Ohio & Mississippi railroad, and landed in jail with O'D wyer and Jones. The authorities are on the alert to prevent Violence.

The wounded engineer and fireman are getting along nicely.

Home of the Bandits.

St. Louis, Sept. 21.—The home of the unsuccessful Centralia train robbers has for the past two years been in this city, and if superstition counts they had no right to expect success. Jones roomed at 1313 Chouteau avenue, Marlin at 1310 and Odwyer at Thirteenth and Chouteau, all taking their meals at 1813. During the two years they have lived in that vicinity they have worked for various railroads, and though out of work the past few months only left a few days ago, probably after having perfected their plans for their imperfect hold-up. Jones left his baggage, an intention to return. Their residence here has been marked by no untoward act, and while detectives and others to-day made every effort to obtain clews, etc., nothing was revealed which gave the men anything other than a respectable record. Officers here are on the lookout for Hartin, who is supposed to be headed

In default of bail he was taken to Moyamensing prison. TOO MANY SWEETHEARTS.

Well-Known Bachelor of Columbus Ends His Life on the Banks of White River,

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. COLUMBUS, Ind., Sept. 21.-At an early hour this morning the body of Frank Linschmidt, a business man of this city, was found lying in the edge of White river near the city limits. Above the right ear and an inch back was a large hole, made by a ball from a thirty-two caliber revolver. By his side was a revolver of ancient pattern with three chambers empty. In his pocket was a letter addressed to him from a woman at No. 228 South West street, Indianapolis. It was for keeping company with this woman, whose name is Barnett, that a relative took him to task some time ago, when he threatened to end his life. Linschmidt was not a handsome man by any means, but he had two sweethearts | ing Hon. Hunter Wood, of this city, as ashere, one a married woman whose husband has left her and the other a woman three times divorced. When these women learned that he had ended his life they each claimed the other had betrayed him and that this was the cause of his death. Linschmidt was the owner of a feed store and the half owner of a grocery store, and also the owner of a good farm estimated to be worth $10,000. The coroner will render a verdict in the case to-morrow. Linschmidt was forty-five years old and unmarried.

Bloodhounds Unable to Follow the Wratten Family Murderers.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Ind., Sept. 21.-At the coroner's inquest on the bodies of the Wratten family, to-day, nothing new of any importance was developed. The hounds havebeen brought back to the city, having lost the trail at Jasper. A bloody gum coat was found in Wratten's room, and this is thought to have been worn by the murderer, as no one could identify it as the property of Mr. Wratten. A report reached the city this afternoon that a negro, with his clothes covered with blood, had been arrested north of Terre Haute. He claimed he was stopped by two men, who compelled him to give them his good clothes and made him take the bloody ones. This negro will be held in custody until he clears himself. Good Word for Indianapolis.

Fitchburg (Mass.) Dispatch. H. L. Lacey, who accompanied the Fitch burg delegation to Indianapolis and Ch cago, returned home Wednesday. He says the decorations of the city of Indianapolis during the encampment surpassed everything in the history of the G. A. R. Th people in Indianapolis did everything in their power to entertain the old soldiers and gave them a grand welcome. The illuminations, though not so extensive as that at Washington, D. C., last year, were very elaborate. The soldiers' monument, probably the finest and most expensive of its kind in the world, presented a sight never to be forgotten. The illumination of this noble structure was of dazzling splender. The procession of floats on Thursday evening was a new feature and was about one mile long. This feature was witnessed by thousands of people, who were unanimous in their praise.

Philadelphia Times (Dem). Every one understands that the federal election laws are to be repealed, and when the proper time comes a bill to that effect can be passed in the House without any difficulty, and probably in the Senate as well, though there it must encounter another flood of talk. But there can be no expectation of passing it finally at this extra session and it should be simply reported in the House and laid over until the purpose of the session has been fulfilled. There will be plenty of time for politics at the regular session; in the present emergency politics can wait.

IN PERIL AGAIN

Admiral De Mellos Ready to Destroy Brazil's Capital.

Representatives of Foreign Powers Striving to Save the City-Revolution in Argentina.

LONDON, Sept. 21 .- Private cables received here to-day from Rio de Janeiro by a large banking house having extensive interests at stake in Brazil say that it was expected that a furious bombardment of Rio de Janeiro would be commenced this morning. The statement made by the Brazilian minister here to the effect that the "agitation" in Brazil is merely a political move, made in view of the fact that a presidential election is to be held in March, does not find many believers here. The statement cabled vesterday, to the effect that Admiral De Mellos, the commander-in-chief of the forty odd large and small war vessels at the disposal of the insurgent forces at Rio de Janeiro, had sent an ultimatum to the officials at Rio de Janeiro demanding the prompt surrender of the capital, has been confirmed from several sources. The banking house referred to, upon hearing of the attempt made by the Brazilian minister to belittle the situation, communicated with its agent at Rio, and was assured in reply that the sit nation of affairs at Rio was about as described in the dispatch sent from there to London, in spite of the censorship of the government officials. The fact that the complete and thorough bombardment of Rio did not take place yesterday is due to negotiations which have been in progress since the Admiral's ultimatum was renot come up this term of court, except | ceived between the rebels and the representatives of the government of President reixoto. These negotiations were entered into at the earnest request of the representatives of the foreign powers, backed up by the commanders of the foreign war vessels, who have determined to leave no stone unturned to save Rio from being reduced to ruins, for the rebels have guns enough to cause wholesaie havoc and

> The dispatches received early to-day are similar to those received yesterday. The rebel fleet is only waiting for the signal to hurl death and destruction into Rio, and it is openly asserted that the negotiations now in progress will amount to little or nothing. Indeed, it is believed that the negotiations are intentionally prolonged in order to allow noncombatants to escape from the city and to enable merchants and others to make all the provision possible for the safety of their wares. People in Rio admit that the revolt against Perxeto has grown to such proportions that it would be better to let kio fall into the hands of the insurgents than to expose it to the fearful bombardment it may at any moment receive from the rebel fleet. The rebels at Rio are now in communication, by some means, with the rebel forces in the south, and all parties opposed to Peixoto are acting in unison After their success at Santos the rebels, it is said, propose to attack Porto Allegre and Rio Grande, and the Republica and other vessels are said to have already started on that errand. There is no doubt, official statements to the contrary, that the rebels are meeting with success, and that the cause of President Peixoto grows more desperate every hour. Nobody here would be surprised to hear, at any moment, that President Peixoto has resigned, and that Rio de Janeiro has surrendered to the rebels. In fact, a report that the rebels had occupied Rio was in circulation here this morning. The Brazilian navy may be said, as a whole, to favor the re-establishment of the empire of Brazil, and this may be the outcome of the present struggle. In the capture of Nietheray the government forces lost sixty killed and 120 wounded in the fight. No Interruption to Business. NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Business messages are flashing uninterruptedly from Brazil to merchants and the exchanges in this city since yesterday. They are all in plain language, and make no mention of the political situation at Rio Janeiro. No official advices from Brazil have been received at the Coffee Exchange to-day. When seen this morning, Gustave H. Gossler, the vice consul for Brazil, said: "I have no news whatever, and have absolutely nothing to

The Rebels Defeated.

MONTEVIDEO, Sept. 21.-News which has been received here to-day is not as favorable to the cause of the revolutionists as heretofore. The rebel squadron, o which the Republica is the flagship, which sailed for the south, intending to bombard Santos, Porto Alegre and Rio When they arrived off Santos guns of the Republica and Pallas were trained on the city. The land forces were awaiting the attack on the shore and their artillery replied with vigor. The fight was kept up for two hours, when the rebel fleet hoisted anchor and sailed to the southward. Desertions from the ranks of the revolutionists are daily reported.

ANOTHER REVOLUTION.

Uprising in Argentina That Is Assuming Formidable Proportions,

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 21.—The revolution in Argentine is spreading and affairs have assumed a most alarming aspect. The government is redoubling the precautions already taken. Several of the radical leaders accused of plotting with the army officers have been arrested and sent handcuffed on board of one of the government ironolads, where, it is said, they will be tried on a charge of treasonable conspiracy, and, if convicted, will be shot. Full particulars regarding the revolution are not obtainable, as the newspapers are forbidden to publish any information concerning it. Engagements between the government forces and the insurgents in the province of Tucuman have taken place and the former have undoubtedly been defeated. Ex-President Pellingri at 2 o'clock this morning placed himself at the head of 1.500 troops and embarked for Tucuman, where it is now said a state of anarchy prevails. Pellingri is determined at all bazards to pacify the Tucumans. Among other things, it is asserted that the rebeis are now threatening Santiago del Estero, capital of the province of Santiago del Estro, on Rio Dulce.

The national troops in Corrientes have joined the revolutionary movement. The crews of the gunboats Republic and Bermejo, stationed on the l'arana river, have also declared their symathy with the Tucuman rebels. The Argentine government has ordered that the National Guard be mobilized throughout the country, and is determined to put down the rebellion, if that is possible. Everything is quiet in the Capitol. The authorities continue to arrest all persons who are suspected of giving aid to the revolutionists.

Free Speech in England.

LONDON, Sept. 21 .- Replying to a question in the House of Commons, to-day, regarding the speech of a man named Samnels, in Trafalgar Square, recently, during which the speaker advised the miners now on strike to follow the example of the Homestead rioters who, he claimed, shot Mr. Henry Frick, at Pitteburg, Pa., and who arged the use of "torch and bomb," Mr. Herbert Gladstone, parliamentary secretary of the Home Office, said that there were no regulations concerning the subject of speeches. Continuing, Mr. Gladstone said that the government was of the opinion that to institute criminal proceedings against Mr. Samuels would tend to attribute undue importance to the individual and to his speech.

during the fighting. It is reported that two officers and several privates were killed. An accident happened to the Eleventh Husars that would have been laughable had not many of the men and their horses been injured. The regiment received an order to advance upon the enemy. The bugle sounded the charge, and the hussars moved forward at a gallop. Suddenly horses and men were seen toppling over. They had come nuawares upon a wide and deep ditch, and the hussars went down as though their ranks were being swept with grape and canister. Many of the regiment were seriously hurt. Only thirty men and horses emerged from the ditch in condition to resume the charge. Emperor William has left the field of operations and gone to Mohaies.

Labor-Leader Mann Predicts Troub'e. LONDON, Sept. 21 .- Tom Mann, the labor leader, addressing a number of workmen who took part in a labor parade at Woolwich to-day, said that the problem of the unemployed was looming ahead and that there would be serious trouble this winter. Continuing, Mr. Mann said that he was going to preach moderation or orderly submission. The unemployed, said this speaker, must prepare to be a thorn in the side of every government refusing to come to their aid.

Fatal Duel.

LONDON, Sept. 21.-The correspondent of the Daily News at Vienna reports that a duel, which resulted fatally, was fought at Grosswardein, Hungary, yesterday. The participants were Dr. Kalman, a lawyer and newspaper proprietor, and Herr Oerley, a landed proprietor. Pistols were used. Dr. Kalman received a shot under the left arm and died almost metantly. Herr Oerley was not hurt. The meeting was the result of a quarrel between Dr. Kalman and an actress, Herr Oerley appearing in the dispute as the champion of the woman.

He is in favor of free trade in all articles of commerce except one, and that is encaustic tile! That is, he is in favor of free trade "for them other fellers," but wants his own business protected, and last week he went before the ways and means committee in Congress and told them so. Mr. Jackson Landers is smart, and there are thousands of freetraders like him all over the country. "Give us free trade," they cry, and then they whisper confidentially in the ear of Congress: "But protect my business!" Mr. Landers says furthermore: "If the duty is cut down on encaustre tile the wages of my workmen must be reduced or the shops must be closed." And such is the case with innumerable industries all over the coun-

Was It Misplaced Economy? Pittsburg Chronicle-Te egraph." The Big Four has been reducing its operating expenses of late, and it would be well for the civil authorities to ascertain to what extent the reduction of force is responsible for this and other accidents. It may be that too many men have been taken off, and more work placed on those who remain than they are capable of doing. Let the investigation ascertain whether or not this is the fact. Economy in this direction may be carried too far. It costs too many lives, too much suffering and too much money.

Only Safety for Veterans.

Iowa State Register. A bill was introduced in the House last week by Mr. Bailey to strike from the rolls the names of all pensioners in receipt of an income of $600 a year or possessed of property valued at $5,000. The war against the disabled Union veterans will go on as long. as the Democratic party has a representative in Congress. The only safety for the veterans is voting as they shot-solidly against the Democratic party.

Bound to Strike the Right Persons.

The dectectives who are working on that Indiana train robbery are liable to get the right men whether they succeed in convicting them or not. The amateur Pinkertons are especially zealous in the work, and if some check is not put upon their zeal they are in a fair way to arrest most of the people of the Hoosier State.

Modern Skej t cism.

New York Commercial Advertiser. A high-rank theosophist in Massachusetts has budded out as a full-fledged Messiah. It would be interesting to know just how he stands with the grocer, and to what extent he has patronized the divorce courts before one joins in the shouts or hastens to secure a donkey for him. It may not be

SULLIVAN'S INEFFICIENCY. Vain Efforts to Have Disease-Breeding

Pools Obliterated. Mayor Sullivan, I am afraid that the cares of the pending canvass and your constant fear that your Board of Safety will break your bargain with the "crap shooter" have so exhausted your executive energies that you have no time to give to such small matters as the public health. I wish, if possible, to spur you to some show of activity. Your Board of Works, or 'Perks," or "Shirks," as they are variously designated by suffering citizens, have now "finished" the improvement of North Alabama street. The result is two stagnant pools of water, extending from Sixth to Seventh street, in the gutters of Alabama street. The water stinks, and the September sun is covering it with a green mantle. Your able board have erected and maintain an impervious dam at Seventh street, which prevents the water from flowing away. An epidemic of diphtheria prevailed in the vicinity of these pools of stinking mud and water last spring, and a number of short graves at Crown Hill hear witness to your executive inefficiency. I have thought sometimes that if you would take your children to the cemetrey and look in their faces and then glance at the little graves you would give some thought to the matter. But I should reflect that a man who sells his soul to a gang of gamblers, who daily violates his official oath by conniving at all sorts of lawlessness, is not likely to respond to an appeal to his humane metinets. I may be indiscreet in addressing you, for I recall the fact that when I once before brought this standing nuisance to your attention you sent seven men to ransack my premises, and to annoy me by trumping up a charge that a wisp of lawn grass had been deposited in an alley behind my lot. This was your small way of doing things. Repeat your tactics if you like, but it will not relieve you of the guilt of having neglected your duty in needlessly imperiling the lives of your fellow-citizens. Meanwhile, the people of the neighborhood are fearing another ontbreak of diphtheria. A committee waited upon your Board of Works recently. asking that something might be done, but their request was pigeonholed. We expect Do you know that it is estimated that to see a gang of men at work there, a lew since July 1 200,000 employes have lost their days before the election. Do not disap-W. P. FISHBACK. The Trouble with Daniel.

Chicago Jenna. The trouble with Daniel Voorhees is that he does not know which side of the silver question he is on. Historically he is for free comage. Temporarily he is bound to the repeal bill by nooks of patronage. He is restive and rants under just criticism. When he attempts to be solemn he is stupid. When he would be impressive, as he sought to be yesterday, he is simply blasphemous. He is one of those statesmen whose "immeasurable contempt" is microscopio.
